It was an early meeting at McDonalds Lithgow for breakfast before heading out to our cars for a quick chat about the day. We were doing this trip from Sunny Corner to Capertee which could make it interesting in some sections. All in our cars and on the road we turned off at Portland and onto dirt where we decided we should air down. Once done, we continued along the tracks which were all fine, however a little bumpy. We had some decent hill climbs and descents which were fun before stopping for morning tea. After our break and chats were over we headed back off down the hill. Luckily someone noticed that Warren had left his canopy window open before we left! We all made it to the bottom where it became a bit confusing as to where the track went. We realised that it went up! And up some pretty nasty rock steps with awful angles. A few people were worried about traction and clearance so as a group we made the decision to go around the hill. There were a lot of sighs of relief at this stage that we had another option! We continued around and came back to where we would have come out and continued on our trip. We had quite a few little water crossing to do and everyone made it through them easy. There were many kangaroos out, luckily they stayed well away from the cars. We eventually made it to The Diggings camp ground where we had lunch and a well deserved toilet break after the very bumpy track! After lunch we headed out towards Capertee where we aired up. Cameron proved to us that size does not matter with his air compressor – we had never seen one so small and cute before!! Everyone had a great day with no recoveries needed.
