We all met at the Upper Colo Reserve around 10am with some arriving a bit later. As the morning went on, our trip participant list grew with Taps forgetting to email me direct, rather he went through Rohit who sent an email just that morning, where we had no service!! Venita made up for it by giving me a bag of marinated chicken which I must say was awesome! Thanks Ven xx

We set up awnings and gazebos as the morning weather started out very average with light drizzle. We cooked lunch which was an assortment of different cuisines ranging from Indian to Lebanese to kangaroo. Everyone had a bit of everything which made our Australia Day very special. After lunch, a chat and a few cups of tea we decided to head on down to the river for a swim. With all the recent rain the river was really good. Lots of water for a change and a nice steady flow. It was a great way to cool off after the sun decided to show up and the humidity hit a high point. After our swim we came back to where we were set up, started packing up our Australia Day decorations and picnic stuff and eventually all decided it was time to go home.

Thank you to all who came down and made Australia Day (and India's Republic Day) a massive hit.

Kim xx
