

Attendees:

Craig Upton and kids.

Brian and Susan Dixon

Carl & Colleen Bleazard + 1

It was planned to be a cruisy weekend and that is what it was. The Upton's left on the Thursday and once set up in the Coorongooba Campground around lunch time enjoyed the serenity of Glen Alice. Well that and watching the other people set up and take some hours. That is always a laugh and great entertainment. I mean what else was I meant to do while the kids were running around in the creek and finding new friends from other camps.

The next day saw Brian and Sue turn up about 8,30 and as they were setting up, Carl and Colleen came a wondering in to camp. Once sites were reserved with rope, etc it was time to go for a small drive up Mount Airlie. There was nothing serious in the driving but a couple of small challenges made the drive to our short fern walk and then our amazing lunch lookout spot all the more fun.

After a bit of a relax and potter we headed back down the mountain, stopping only to get fire wood and then back to camp for what the trip was all about, relax.

The Saturday saw us head out to Dunn's Swamp which is about a 45 minute drive down the road. Our trip was extended a fraction as we stopped in to my Dads place on the way as he was coming along to have a bite to eat with us at this reservoir and watch the kids paddle in the canoes. It was an easy drive and an easier stay at Dunn's Swamp.

Once we left we stopped into Kandos for a short (that's all you can do in Kandos is short) look around and ice cream stop. Then back to camp via a fire wood stop.

Easter Day. Sunday. Beautiful weather and we were down by one as Carl and Colleen left back to Sydney. Now what do you do when the trip was meant to be relaxing. Oh yeh, nothing. And we did nothing really well. The dat flew by and we just sat around and chatted and chilled. Well the kids didn't did they. They were running around like crazy people and having a ball with all their friends from other camp sites. They got muddy and dirty, then wet and clean and ended up back at camp only to eat somewhere in-between the clean, wet and dirty. It was an awesome nothing day and was just what the doctor ordered for all of us.

Monday of course was the pack up day and then back to Sydney. We did very little but I'm not sure we did the nothing completely so we will be aback and the plan is next Easter. Stay tuned if that sort of trip suits you. I will put it up on the calendar then.
