We started our day out at zig zag railway at 8.30 on a gorgeous winters morning for a 9am take-off. After meeting new faces and old friends and doing our briefing we got ready to head off. Assisting with airing down and handing out spare UHF's we started our journey down to glow worm tunnel. With two new members on their first trip out of basic training we took our time and got to see some the locals (kangaroos) on our way. Everyone had a great time exploring the tunnel, the natural beauty surrounds it and of course the glow worms. After everyone got back to the cars a little fitter we headed off and stopped at our camp site at the brasserie for lunch by campfire, a good chat or two before heading on to Black fellows hand trail. The weather has been pretty wet recently making for lots fun dodging holes and many puddles. The last leg of Black fellows was a little tricky but once all through we all made our way up to black fellows hand rock. It had been a very long day and two our group chose to head out here onto the blacktop and head home. The rest us made our way back up Black fellows and to zig zag to air up say our final goodbyes and see you next trips before heading home.
