We met at the Caltex Service Station at Colo Heights. It was an early start and there were quite a few sleepy heads in cars! A quick coffee seemed to help most people, and lollies for the kids! We had a quick chat about the day ahead and got in our cars for the trip. We drove up the Putty Rd and stopped at the Grey Gums Café for a toilet break and to stretch the legs. We were soon back in the vehicles and turning off the road and onto the track where we aired down for the track ahead. It looked as though it had been recently graded (just our luck) and so we continued our drive. We stopped at Kings Cross for morning tea where Rohit was most impressed that his car was dirty! Apparently no-one ever believes it goes off road. I think if Rohit had a chance, he would have glued the dust on permanently!

We finished our morning tea and continued on. As the track had been fixed up, our trip was a little quicker than we had planned. We made the Sheepskin Hut well before lunch but that gave us all time to get out, go to the toilet, go for a walk and have a good look around. After about 45 minutes here we got back in the cars and kept on driving the track. The weather was looking a bit overcast by this stage. Just as we found a place big enough for us all to stop for lunch, it started to rain. We took cover where ever was possible. The rain didn't dampen any of our spirits and we still managed to have a good chat and laugh over lunch. We left the lunch spot and finally ended up at the Putty village which is just a couple of houses and a community hall. We were greeted there by all the neighbourhood dogs who were all very friendly. We aired up, said our farwells and went our own way home.
